FCC:

I would like to address the issue of local FM translator services. I understand there is consideration of expanding the broadcast service, Low Power FM. It is my understanding that priority to LPFM could diminish the existing FM translator services.

In Lincoln, Nebraska, we receive K-Love Christian radio signals on 3 local FM translator stations (89.9, 91.9, 88.1). If these FM translators were to be diminished in any way, our access to contemporary Christian radio, K-Love, would be terminated.

K-Love is vital to the communities it serves. Not only is there a radio station (K-Love) that families and youth can listen to, but K-Love also provides announcements of upcoming concerts, speakers and other activities.

K-Love radio is a valuable resource to today's society where positive radio is very hard to find and most radio stations feel free to go on about nothing and vulgar issues and topics. Please consider the large number of K-Love communities that depend on local FM translators when considering the destiny of FM translator stations.

Sincerely,

Mike Jackson
